Classroom and Laboratory

Dr. J. Allen Thacker is retiring from the faculty after a 49 year association with High Point College. He graduated from the college with an A.B. in History and English in 1939, was appointed Professor of Education in 1965, and became chairman of the Education Department in 1969. Dr. Thacker received his M.S. from Duke University and his Ph.D. from UNC-Chapel Hill. Prior to his professional association with High Point College, Dr. Thacker taught at Pfeiffer College, as well as at a number of public schools in North Carolina.

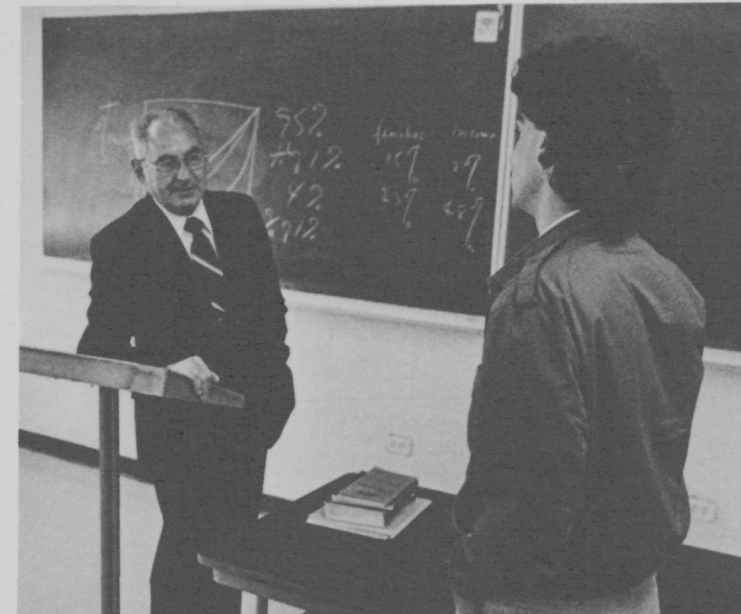

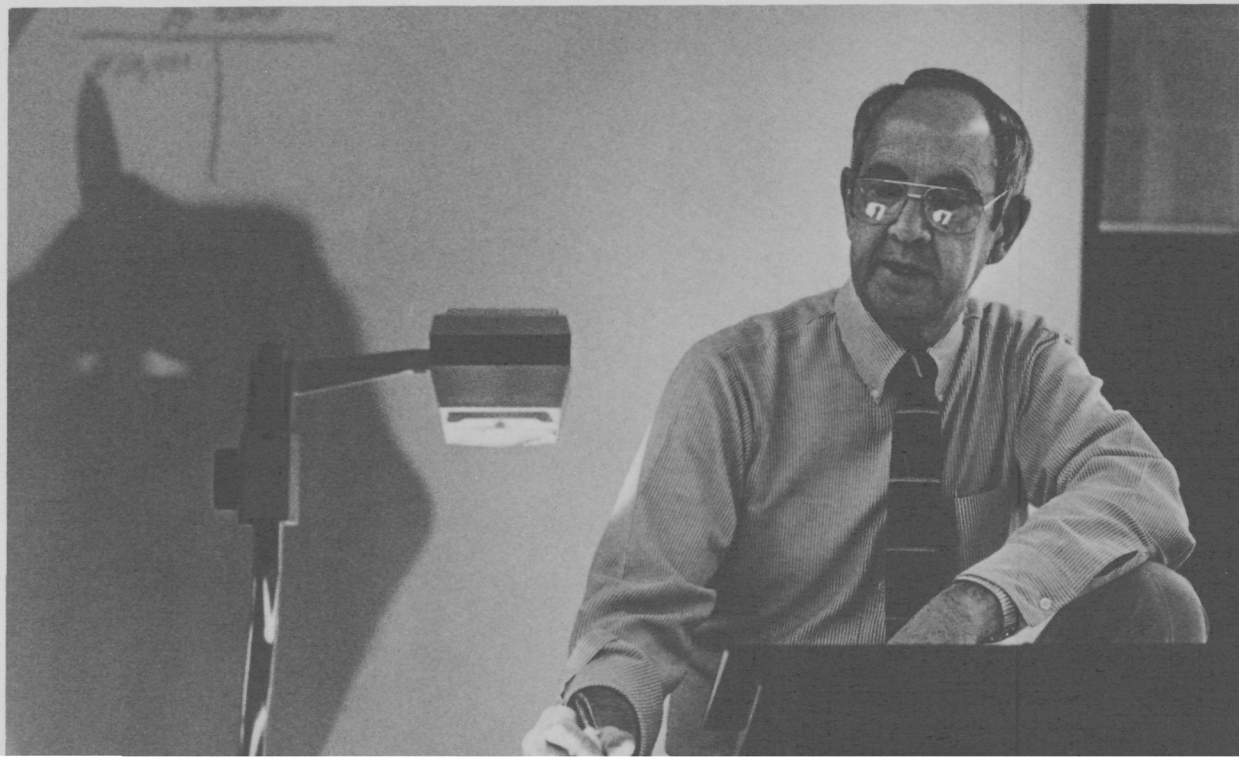

As teacher, advisor, colleague, and friend to several generations of High Point College students, Dr. Thacker has brought a sensitive and caring spirit, as well as energy and dedication, to his work. He has served the college and its students outside the classroom in many roles, including advisor to the NCAE/NAE student chapters and to the education honorary society, The Order of the Lighted Lamp. He has also been active professionally in North Carolina, particularly on the various evaluation and review projects, undertaken by the state, of teacher education programs and students.

All of us at the college have benefited greatly from Dr. Thacker's association with High Point College and we look forward to working together in this new relationship. We extend to him, and his family, our thanks for the past, our best wishes for the future, and our continuing respect for his commitment to our students.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the students, alumni, faculty, administration and staff, High Point College is a special place.

Students arrive at the College as freshmen, not knowing exactly what to expect of the four years they will spend here. They are filled with high hopes and plans for the future — and, in most cases, some anxieties. Often they find more work than they had anticipated. Invariably they develop life-long friendships growing out of their shared experiences of cramming for final exams, working on term papers, spending leisure moments over coffee in the cafeteria and snack bar, and the like. Many of them find their future mates, the man or woman they will marry and with whom they will raise their own families.

When, as alumni, they look back on their years at High Point College, the long hours of work and study fade from memory and they tend to recall only the "good times." Then they are filled with pride. Then they realize that there was more to being a student at High Point College than just studying and preparing papers. Though they were unaware of it at the time they were students, they now realize, as alumni, the meaning of Alma Mater — the depth of pride in the institution to which they gave their efforts and which, in turn, helped shape them into the men and women they now are.

To the faculty and staff and administration of the College, High Point College is also a very special place. It is, of course, where they work. But to these people their "work" is much more than just the way they earn their livelihood. It is, as probably is the case with most professionals, a commitment to what they believe in.

The common thread that runs throughout all our thoughts about High Point College is, of course, a certain idealism about the meaning and significance of higher education. As students, as alumni, as faculty or staff or administrators, each of us believes that the liberal arts experience in a college such as ours has a unique contribution to make to the individual and to society. The faculty and administrators have dedicated their professional lives to this ideal. The students have or will devote at least four years of their lives to this same ideal.

As you look back on the College as alumni, I hope you will recall chapel services on Sunday mornings, the basketball and soccer games and tennis matches, the opening convocations — in other words, all the memories of the "good times" this 1984 annual will evoke for years to come. I hope you will also look back with love, humor, pride in Alma Mater, and a certain nostalgic conviction that these were, indeed, some of the "best years of our lives."

Judiciary Committee

1983-84 proved to be a good year for the Student Government Association. Many new programs were initiated under the leadership of the Executive Council. Increased campus lighting was the first step in improvement. Early in the fall, SGA solicited funds to pave the gravel parking lot on West College drive. Perhaps the most important step SGA has taken in many years was the creation of the Student Leadership Scholarship program. This program recognizes two students each year for outstanding contributions to the college. "All it takes is a little initiative to achieve some results," said SGA President Tom Leech.

The Judiciary Committee is organized into two branches, the Supreme Court and the Traffic Court. The traffic court is responsible for hearing and interpreting all cases involving parking, vehicle registration, and non-moving violations. It must enforce due punishment for violations occurring on the High Point College campus. The Supreme Court has the power to interpret any part of the Student Government Association Constitution. It determines and enforces punishments for violations of the Constitution.

High Point selects 12 for Who's Who 1984

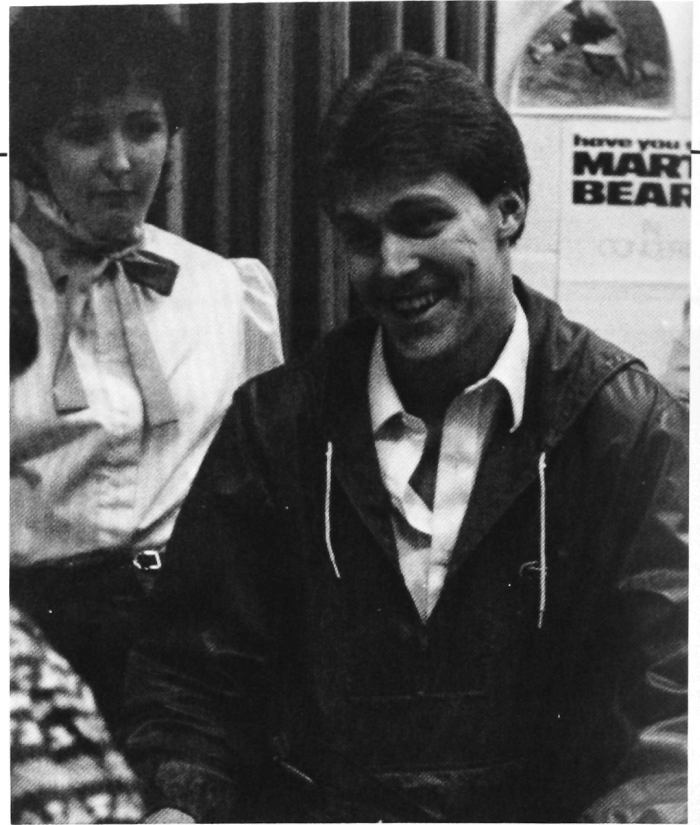

Being named to Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges is one of the highest honors a student can obtain at High Point College. Students are selected by the faculty. The basis for selection includes academic achievement, service to the community, leadership, and potential for future achievement. This year, twelve students were named to Who's Who. These students belong to an elite group chosen by over 1300 institutions nation wide. Names of these students are published in a directory that has been in existence since 1934.

The Student Union is the Governing Board of the Student Government Association of the college and is charged with the operation and promotion of activities for student and faculty in the social, cultural, and recreational areas. Presidential Scholars

Each year, Presidential Scholarships are awarded to incoming freshmen. These scholarships, based on academics, leadership, and citizenship, are valued from $4000 to $6000 over a four year period. The students who have been chosen to be Presidential Scholars must keep a 3.0 grade point average, and serve on selected committees which run the annual Presidential Scholarship weekend. During this weekend, high school students from around the country visit High Point College, and are interviewed by faculty and those students who have been chosen as scholars in the past. Based on high school activities and their personal interviews, these high school students are granted Presidential Scholarships.

All persons having junior class status, that is having earned between 58 and 91 credit hours and having attended High Point College for a minimum of three semesters are eligible for consideration as marshals.

The top twenty students in the Junior Class, based on grade point average, are selected and the top two students are selected as Chief Marshals.

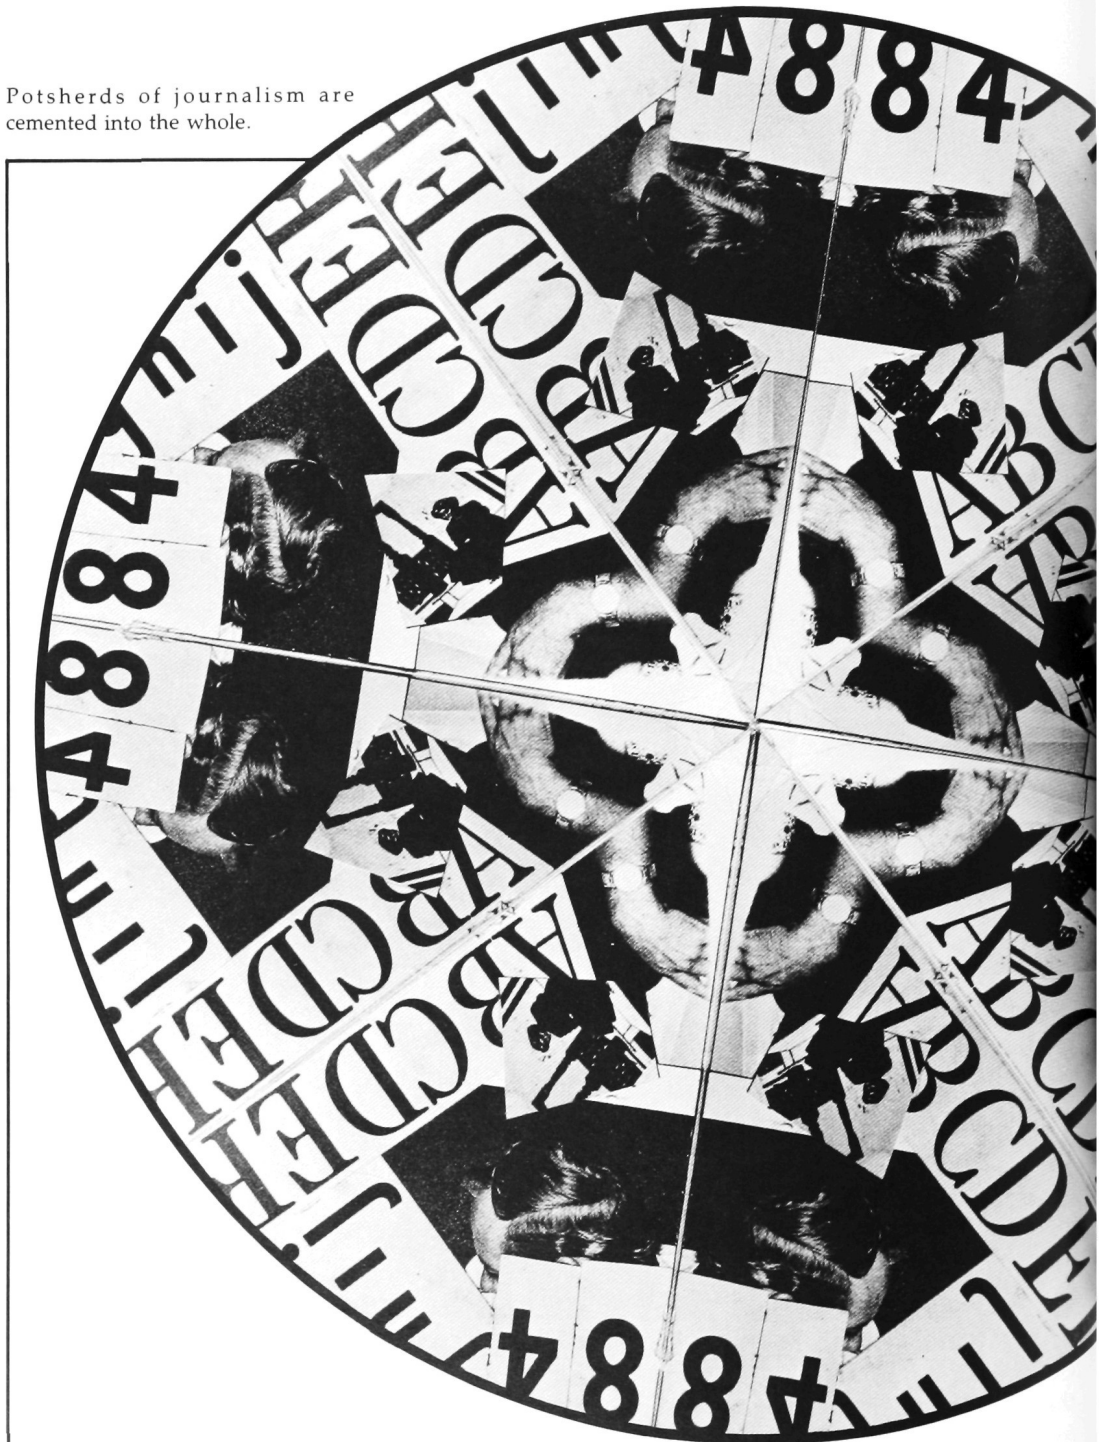

The Junior Marshals assist with the formal convocations and symbolically and functionally represent the college at the spring graduation ceremonies.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL YEAR for High Point

Susan Warwick interviews Tom Greco;

High Point College Community Television, the College's television station which broadcasts over the High Point cable network (Channel 19), produces public affairs programming. In fall of 1982, the station produced "Christian Denominations in America," the first course offered for college credit over television. In the spring of 1983, station personnel also taped excerpts of the High Point Community Theatre production of "Grease."

With a studio containing two different sets, the T.V. Station can create full productions. In the fall of 1983 the staff recored the Christine Craft speech, and plans will continue for productions in the spring and semesters to come.

High Point College Community Television, under the direction of Dr. DeLeeuw, has ten students enrolled in

The studio has equipment to tape audiovisuals, theatre productions and has the capacity with a Compugraphic phototypesetter to allow the station and other campus publications to prepare camera ready printed advertisements for any programing.

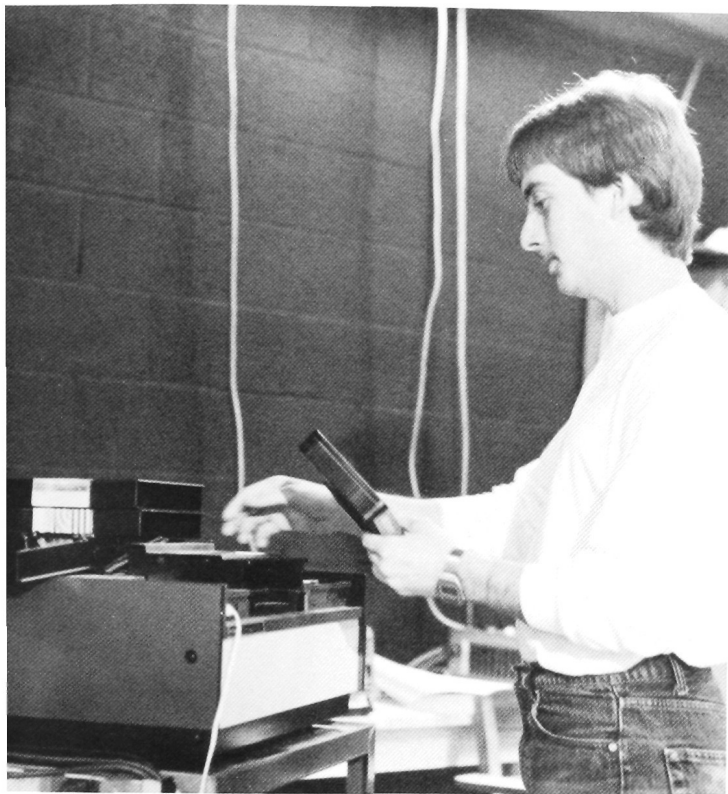

HPC Community TV was made possible by grant donations from Mobil Oil, Cablevision of High Point, WGHP, and the High Point College Rawley Fund.

The SCIP Internship program outside the High Point area at Channel 2, Channel 12, and Channel 48 TV allows for further access to television equipment and experience.

The organization states as its basis of faith the unique, divine inspiration, entire trustworthiness and authority of the Bible; the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ; as Jesus Christ's death as necessary and sufficient for the redemption of the world from its sin through the historic fact of His bodily resurrection; the presence and power of the Holy Spirit in the work of changing us into the completeness of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Campus Gold Chartered in November

High Point College has been showing significant changes and signs of growth over the past few years. One of the changes took place with the installation of a new club on our campus, Campus Gold, a coed service organization aligned with Girl Scouts of America whose members are dedicated to the assisting of young girls and their growth. The expansion of their horizons is brought about through a program of camping, education, various cultural trips, and numerous activities to increase life's pleasure and beauty. These experiences heighten their awareness of themselves. The organization gained its affiliation with the college in November, 1983 and is proud to be a part of the college community.

Student YMCA The New Kids in Town

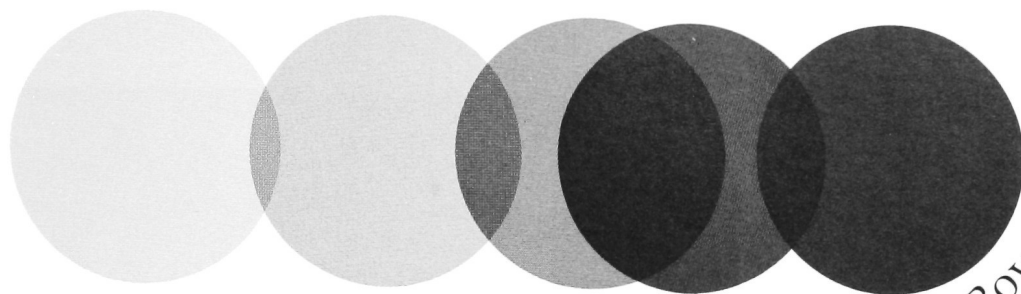

A new service organization has appeared on the HPC campus this year, the Student YMCA. We have been meeting every Friday afternoon to discuss future projects, trips, seminars, and other such things. The group is a national organization founded in the Judeo-Christian faith. The traditions are based on a dedication to the community and service to it through our common dream of global citizenship in the world community.

We are committed to the following ends: to providing free social space for critical and integrative thinking by linking educational and experiential learning in supportive and challenging communities, and to promoting personal growth enabling an ethically aware leadership and fellowship that thinks globally and acts locally.

Although we are recognized as a member of The National Association of Student YMCA's (NASY), we are working on receiving our charter as an affiliated organization on the High Point College campus by fall, 1984.

ARMY ROTC

"BE ALL THAT YOU CAN BE"

The Reserve Officer Training Corps offers a variety of experiences to those learning to be proficient Army Officers. In addition to learning managerial skills and military history, students enjoy orienteering, navigation with a map and compass, rifle marksmanship, and radio communications. Summer "Camp" builds self confidence through numerous challenges. It provides an opportunity to develop proficiency in leadership and tactical skills.

The program enjoys a reputation for training skilled leaders, and this year two students, Steve Barnhill and Perry Davis, will be commissioned Army officers immediately upon graduation.

As "Sisters in the Service of God" ADT has adopted grandparents, helped at various receptions, collected for the needy, sung at rest homes, and helped in other campus and community projects.

FALL OFFICERS

Faisal Gulzar, Donna Hoover, Marwan Shaban have a little fun after a meeting.

Alpha Phi Omega is the only national fraternity which is devoted essentially to service. Our three cardinal principles of leadership, friendship, and service has remained our goal ever since we were chartered on High Point College in 1957. We've found the true meaning of love by participating in this meaningful service program designed to improve all society as we improve our various talents. We've found the true meaning of happiness: the joy of giving and the awe of sharing ourselves through our words, prayers, and actions. We've also found the true meaning of success: To know one life has breathed a little easier because we were there to help. All in all, APO is worthwhile to all who have dared to be different, dared to commit themselves to high challenges, and dared to let someone else be strong.

We all are grateful for the valuable experiences offered us this past year. We have sponsored many Red Cross, blood drives, raised hundred of dollars during our Crop walk and stair climb for Cystic Fibrosis, and worked closely on projects with the Jaycees, United Way, Boy Scouts, Big Brothers, Big Sisters, and other voluntary agencies. Not only do we give our services to the world and community, but we also have been dedicated to help out the H.P.C. campus in variety of ways. As long as there are needs unfilled, as long as there are dreams to share, hearts to love, and service to render, there will always be a Fraternity — Alpha Phi Omega!

Halloween Fun

Fall Camping Trip

Flutter of the Green Ribbon, Go, Go, Go...

The wooly worm of diligence crawled, contracted, and expanded from Wrenn to Smith like an undulating, segmented organism of human atoms surgically programed to dissect and transplant the heart of the college from an old to a new body. The renaissance is complete like the mythical phoenix. The dialysis of transfer was a success.

The brigade of students, faculty, staff, alumni, and friends transferred the complete library collection from one building to another on February first. The fuel of learning passed through the hands of hundreds of volunteers who turned the event into the carnival of the books. The hurdy-gurdy-man kept us entertained with music, gifts, prizes, and snacks. The college wide job turned out to be most festive and just plain fun. The move was beautifully orchestrated and even the news media added to the air of excitement with camera, helicopter, and flocks of newsmen. Most of us felt of this happening as the official library dedication, the building has been sanctified by each of us, and blessed by all, including the perfect weather.

Wrenn Relinquishes And Smith Receives

Her Majesty

Up, Up, and Away! The Air Blows Hot and Warms Up Affairs.

The panther ascended in his hot air balloon and followed the 1984 Homecoming activities. What a happy fellow he was as he watched Her Majesty, Queen Kara Tamaccio, assume her throne and survey her subjects cavorting with abandonment. Her Majesty's court Kristin Brown, Teriann Cleary, Jeanne Davis, Lynn Fortaleza, and Miriam O'Malley looked on approvingly as the Hollywood Brats entertained and supplied the music for the evening at the Top of the Mart ballroom. Everyone enjoyed the pleasures of the dance.

The afternoon Variety Show kept the audience tapping, humming, and clapping as the college's talented shared their abilities to entertain. The winning act was a guitar plucking and singing rendition of "Talking in My Sleep" and "Thinking of Laura" performed by Sherry Campbell and Anna Brady. In the opinion of the judges, Gart Evans, Mike Pittman, Jim Schlimmer, and Elinor Young, the field of performers was tops in quality. They were introduced by Dennis Smith, the amusing and energetic master of ceremonies.

Terry Livingston and Coy Trawick took the second honor of the afternoon by sharing their vocal interpretation of "You Don't Bring Me Flowers Anymore", a bit of the torch song nostalgia. The multi-talented MC, Mr. "D", walked away with the third spot singing, "Still".

It was close, close, close, the excitement of the evening, the Panthers in action. The elation of the fans at halftime was somewhat diminished by the game's end but none could fault Murphy's 8, Telleysh's 1, Young's 12, Allen's 7, Hoffman's 2, or Everett's 8. It was a super game just short of super-duper.

The banner decorations at the game added to the spirit of competition and the award was presented by Gart Evans to the Alpha Gams.

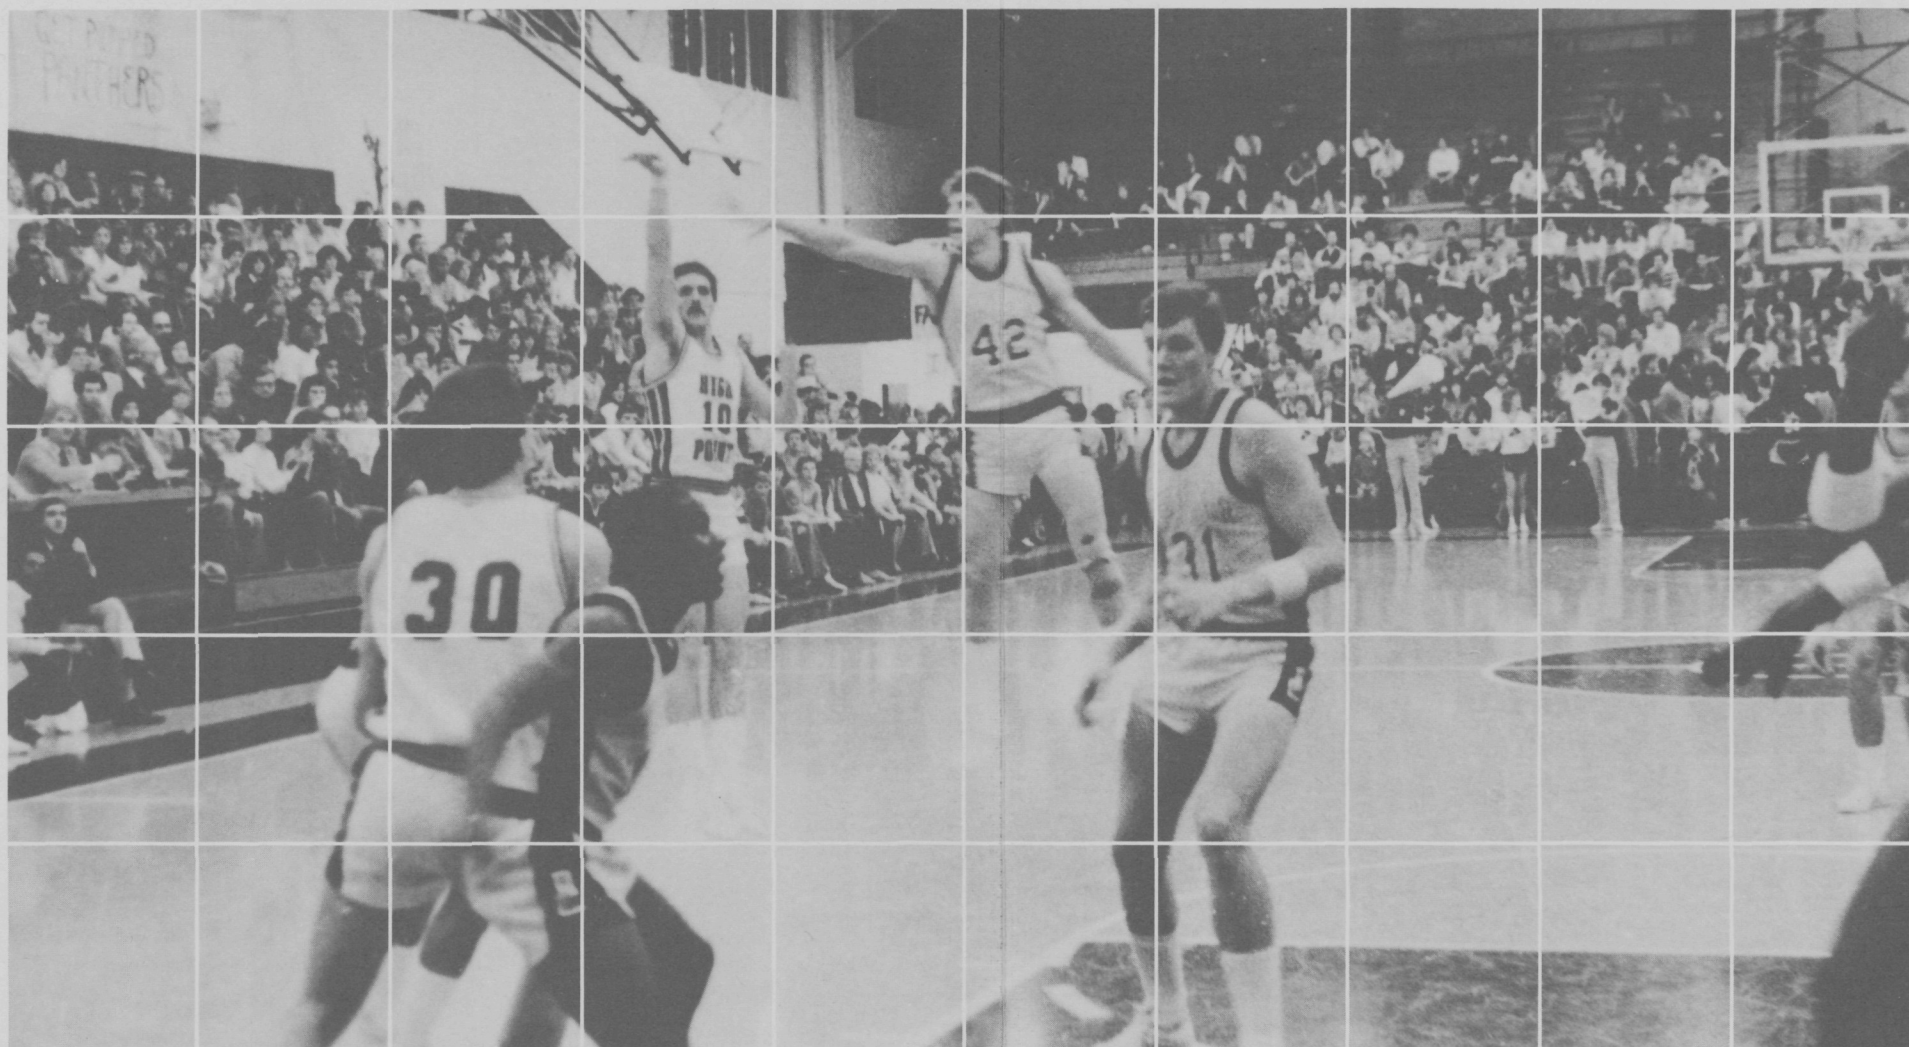

It was a top Homecoming celebration and hard to get the Panther to bring his balloon down to earth.

THINGS HAPPENING TODAY

World Events Shape Student Opinions at High Point

Nationally known sex discrimination lawsuit winner, Christine Craft, traveled to High Point College in November. Although a federal judge reversed Craft's half million dollar decision just three days before she spoke at High Point, she vowed that she would take her case as far as it takes until she wins. Miss Craft appeared through the joint efforts of the Student Government Association and Student Union.

In World Wide events the news was constantly filled with reports of what U.S. troops were doing overseas.

In Beirut, over 229 US

Marines were killed and 81 were wounded when an unknown terrorist group on a suicidal mission, leveled a three story Marine base. This was the greatest number of Americans killed in one day since January of 1968 when 246 were killed in Viet Nam.

The United States also committed troops to the small island of Granada. Over 3,000 men, some from the 82nd Airborne here in North Carolina, were part of the initial assault on October 25th. The United States did suffer in the attack, by losing 11 men with 67 wounded.

CAMPUS LIFE

In early October the Student Life Committee sponsored a Drug Awareness Weekend. A totaled car in which two persons were killed was placed in front of the Campus Center as a vivid reminder of what can happen when you drink and drive. A panel discussion Friday night included a High Point Policeman, a lawyer, doctor, bartender, and a brewery representative of M. A. D. D. (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers) and a recovering drug victim.

DORM LIFE

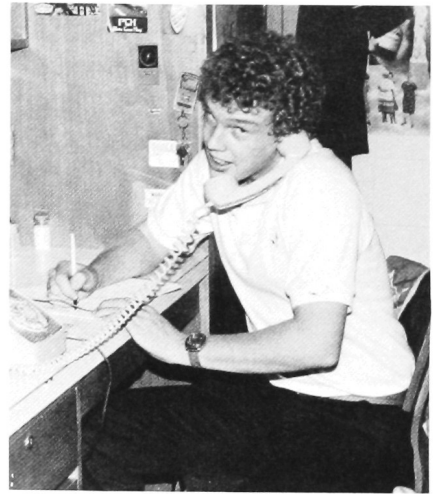

Students find that the dorms are more than a place to study and sleep. The dorm, for instance, becomes a part of the student's personality. Room decor ranges from pre-caveman concrete to posters of cats, dogs, and Lionel Richie.

The dorm room can also become a dining room at times. Midnight munchies hit . . . the only logical answer is to order a pizza. With Dominos just a phone call away, they are more than convenient, they're good.

From hot plates to hot irons, stereos to study lamps, televisions to test papers, the student's life is one full of adventure. No one can dispute the point that dorm life is something that has to be experienced to be appreciated.

HOLIDAYS

Halloween weekend was a time for many students to dress up as their favorite fantasy. Friday night found over 250 HPC students at the JC Fairgrounds dancing the night away. Rob Leonard of Z-93 radio provided the music as the Student Union dance was once again a big success.

The mystical weekend of ghosts and goblins saw the basement of McCulloch Hall transformed into a Haunted House. Over 300 hours of work were put into this project by the Dorm Council. The Women's Dorm Council helped out by serving as guides through the Haunted House and they also shared in the fun and profit.

The Annual Service of Lessons and Carols was held in early December to kick off the Christmas celebration here on the HPC campus. The service included students, faculty, and staff, along with the music of the High Point College Singers. After the service students were invited to Dr. Lucht's home for a Student Reception.

SPORTS

The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat was typical of the HPC sports year. The year had its moments of glory and its periods of frustration. Over all, it was a year of accomplishment for High Point College sports.

A year in sports

A year of hope, promise, disappointment and glory describes the sports year for High Point. A high light of the year was the volleyball team qualifying for the NAIA National Volleyball Tournament for the second straight year.

Another high light was the ladies tennis team qualifying for the NAIA National Tennis Tournament for the second straight year. On the male side, the highlight of the year was the mens soccer team winning the Carolina Conference Championship for the second straight year and qualifying for the District 26 soccer tournament for the second straight year. It was a very productive year for all people involved in HPC sports.

Can I return it?

The Panthers dream of a great season.

After posting the best over all record in District 26 a year ago, but not making the playoffs, the baseball panthers had a better season. The team was lead by Pitcher Andy Dupree who pitched and played first when not pitching. Coach Jim Speight commented "Defensively we were pretty good in the outfield and infield but our hitting was always a problem."

What is he doing? Soccer players use quickness to avoid the goal.

The soccer team won the Carolina Conference crown for the second year in a row. The team was lead by Juniors Angelo Stewart and Bobby Rapp who were both selected to all conference and all district teams in 1982. Coach Gibson commented, "We played aggressively and smart at midfield, so we had a very profitable season."

The Lady Panthers are hoping to improve on last years record which was 3-20. Three players played volleyball until November 20 and leading scorer Ursula Watt was lost for a period of time with a broken hand.

The 1983-1984 year looms big for High Point with four returning letter winners from a year ago and several promising newcomers. Starting for the Panthers will be Watt and Susie Ramirez at the guards, Melanie Hamilton and Gigi McPherson at the forwards, and Lisa Jones at center.

Coach Little, in her fifth year, says, "We have excellent small forwards and guards but we are still in need of a center as Jones is actually a forward."

Freshman who should help the Panthers are Angie Green, Allison Moore, and Cathey Cassady.

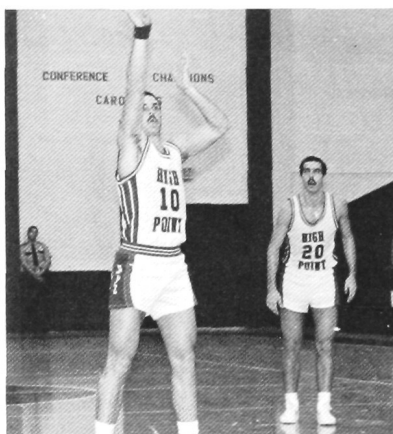

Coach Little says, "With no injuries and everybody eligible we should win more than we lose."

Gigi McPherson (24) and Ursula Watt (23) go up for the ball.

Field Hockey

The High Point College Field Hockey team had an outstanding year this year culminating in two of our players playing in National Tournament. The team spent most of the season building and growing as they were a young team and new to each other. Carol Bidderman and Carol Williams were chosen from the Deep South Tournament at A.S.U. to play on the South East team in the National Tournament in Long Beach, California over Thanksgiving. Another highlight of the season was that the South East Sect, of which High Point is a part, was second in the nation. We are certainly proud of our team.

The High Point Lady Panthers

Spike their way to the Nationals

The Lady Panthers wrapped up another very successful season this past year, finishing with a 24-12 record. The Ladies won the Carolina's Conference, District 26, and NAIA Bi-District championships, which earned them their second straight trip to the National Tournament. The Lady Netters beat Montana

Tech in the first round of the Nationals, before falling to South Western Texas and Franklin College of Indiana. The Panthers have now won seven of the past nine conference titles and have gained respect throughout the league.

Congratulations to the Lady Panthers for the excellent reputation they have made for High Point College.

INTRAMURALS... Occurring within the limits.

Heres to ya!

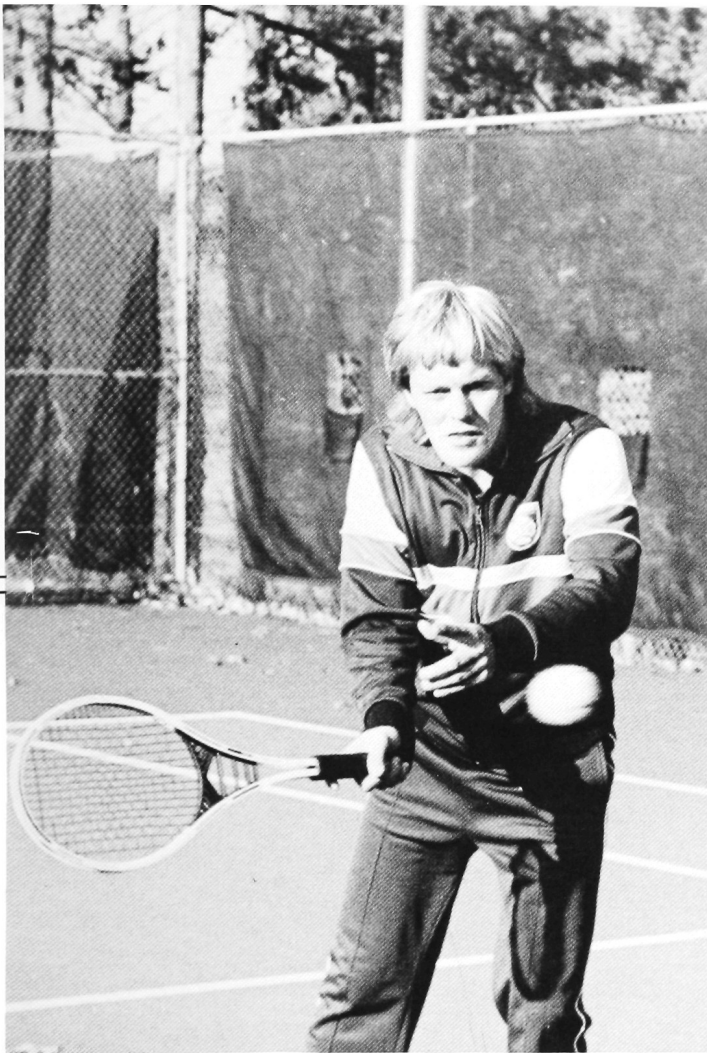

Up, up and away!

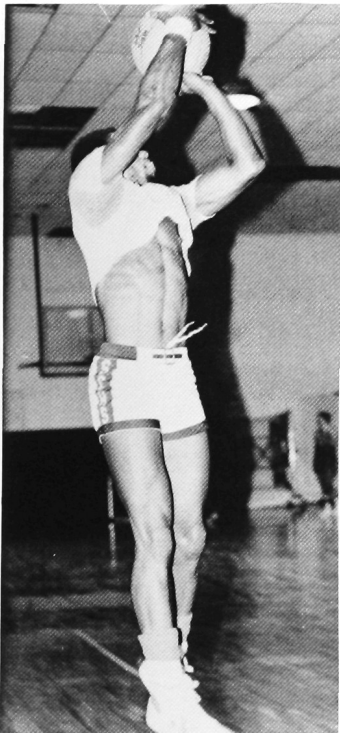

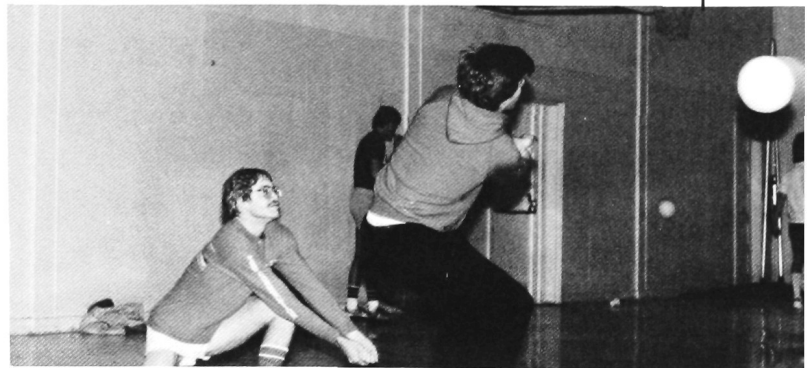

The Intramural program is a service of High Point College. The sports that are offered in the fall are ultimate frisbee, soccer, tennis, track and volleyball. In the spring basketball, bowling and golf are offered. The Theta Chi are leading in the overall point standing with Lambda Chi second. Bob Davidson is the faculty supervisor with John Carty, Robert Rapp, Bob Watkins and Bob Weikworth are the students running the program.

Serious business.

Cheer- leaders leading H.P.C. to victory.

The spirit of the High Point cheerleaders is vibrant under the direction of Richard Hoffmann. One of the main highlights of the squad is the panther, Mike Horniak, who is very entertaining to watch during the game. Another highlight is, of course, the cheerleaders with their mounts, and their gymnastic pyramids. The 1983-84 cheerleading squad of High Point College has boosted a lot of spirit among the fans and, we, the fans thank you for getting us psyched up for the games.

EPILOGUE

Engrave your dreams of yesterday upon the copper plates of destiny.
Lucid images survive in the portfolio of what might have been. What pleasures of age when one may rekindle the misty icons of youth, our college days.

"Terminal" Desires

Any day of the Week

*You'll find us studying . . . waiting . . . for mail . . . studying . . . waiting . . . waiting

"Coping" with the beginning, the end, and the in-between that society dishes up.

Sending is as important as receiving.

The human and mechanical sorting out of things.
